Our global food system is at an inflexion point, driven by environmental and human health crises. Three drivers that support the nutrition theme can be identified. First, given the immense pressure caused by food production on the environment, a huge opportunity exists for companies that contribute to improving the sustainability of food production and food systems, from farm to fork. Precision farming, animal and plant health products and food waste solutions are seeing strong growth. Second is the demand for healthier foods. Science and technology have driven improved awareness of the impact of poor diets on health. The Covid-19 pandemic has accelerated this trend given the link between comorbidities linked to poor diets and vulnerability to infectious disease. Government policymakers are increasing demands for reformulations of food and drink products to reduce levels of sugar, salt and saturated fats while consumers are turning towards foods and supplements with functional benefits such as improving immunity. As a result, there is an increased divergence in growth between healthy, nutritious categories and traditional packaged food categories. Finally, advances in technology and an increasingly digitally savvy consumer are driving growth for businesses in food e-commerce, personalized nutrition, and food traceability.

The Nutrition strategy invests in companies from farm to fork that improve the sustainability of access to and quality of food and food production necessary for health and growth. We invest in innovative companies that provide solutions to the multiple challenges of our current food systems: improving the productivity and sustainability of food production, increasing the efficiency in nutrition processing, transportation, packaging and storage to reduce food waste, and maximising the nutritional content of the food we eat to reduce the disease and malnutrition burden caused by our current diets. We evaluate the ability of companies to generate sustainable growth, profitability, cash flow generation, and return on invested capital. Valuation levels must be attractive relative to growth prospects.
